INHABITED HEADS.

A Live Question Before the Mani

An agent of the Board of Health visited a certain school on Maui, recently, to examine the sanitary arrangements. He found that some of the pupils' heads were alive, and informed the principal that it was not conducive to cleanliness. One of the worst pupils was told by the teacher to come to school the next morning with a cleaner head. She did not, and when the agent visited the school a day or two later he found no improvement, so cut off the girl's hair close to the head. The parents objected to this mode and sued the agent in the Police Court, with the result that the justice fined the official $1 and costs for assault. He appealed to the Circuit Court, but the judge confirmed the decision of the lower court. Another appeal has been noted to the Circuit Court at Chambers, and it is to be heard this week before Mr. Justice Bickerton. Two of the teachers threaten to resign if they cannot have some control over the pupils in a sanitary way, as it is not fair to other pupils who try to

He first took the position of gardener to the late Dr. Judd, and after was sexton at the Bethel, becoming quite a favorite with the whaling men who touched affair. There will be a large variety two sons arrived from the Colonies, bringing with them two drays. He purchased a horse from Mr. J. T. Free Tontine Policy

Equitable Life Assurance Society

A SIMPLE PROMISE TO PAY.

[From the NEW YORK TIMES, June 22, 1889.]

The Equitable Life Assurance Society has adopted a new form of policy which, like a bank draft, is a simple promise to pay without conditions on the back.

[From the CHICAGO INVESTIGATOR.]

Always on the alert, and ever anxious to give the public the most advantageous contract in life insurance, the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York has, in the past, made many advances on old methods and has been the means to liberalize life assurance in a greater degree perhaps, than any other organization. It is not at all surprising, therefore, that this great company now comes before the people with a new contract, the like of which has not before been known in life insurance.

[From the Kentucky Register, Richmond, Ky., June 28, 1880.]

The Equitable Life Assurance Society has, in the past, done more to create and maintain confidence in life assurance than any other company. Consequently its business is larger than that of any of its competitors. Furthermore, it has now taken a step which practically sweeps every objection of the character referred to out of the way. The result, undoubtedly, will be that thousands of men who have heretofore lacked confidence in life assurance, will examine the new policy offered by the Equitable, and assure their lives forthwith.

[From the Boston Post.] This company has done more than any other to simplify the assurance contract, and to maintain public confidence in life assurance. [From the Pacific Underwritten, San Francisco, July 1, 1889.]

The Equitable has already established a world-wide reputation for liberal dealings with its policy-holders and for its prompt settlement of all legitimate claims against it, and this new policy cannot fail to enhance its reputation for enterprise and progressiveness in dealing with the subject of life assurance.
